User Roles 1

Introduction

A clause is a distinct article or provision in a Contract/Agreement, or other formal or legal written documents. In ICM, you can create new clauses for various contract types, and use these clauses while creating templates.

User Roles

A user role defines controls or permissions given to a user. ICM has the following two predefined user roles for the Clauses feature:

- Primary Owner : The person who creates a clause
- Approver: The person who approves a clause.
